Comment Of The Day

Another Feather In Its Cap

THE Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, more than any other in the Colony, has over the years come to be regarded as the "local bank." The fact that it has widespread interests elsewhere in Asia is immaterial. It is not the oldest bank, nor the sole note-issuing authority, but its chief claim to being the Colony's own is that its board of directors, now headed by Mr Michael Turner and composed of leading merchants and businessmen, is resident in Hongkong.

It was indeed this feature which in its earliest days enabled it to become so quickly and firmly established. On-the-spot decisions could be made speedily while others waited on London. And its growth, particularly in the last year, has been watched in Hongkong with an increasing admiration for the men who control its fortunes. Not many years ago the Far East held few encouraging prospects for British capital and enterprise. But as yesterday's statement by Mr Stewart shows, it is now expanding, forward-looking and full of potential.

THE offer to the shareholders of the British Bank of the Middle East will, if accepted, add another feather to the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank's cap. A similar offer to the Mercantile Bank was accepted earlier this year. Nor is this necessarily the limit of the Bank's expansion. Having embarked on this policy of "consolidation," future years may see it move into Africa or South America or another Commonwealth territory.

The Colony as a whole is interested in this move which extends the Bank's activity to a part of Asia not much more predictable than the Far East but nevertheless an area in which British capital and interests are vitally concerned. The wisdom of the Bank's move may be questioned in view of the instability of the area, seething as it is with a nationalism of almost volcanic potential, but its reply might very well be that had it jibbed at such obstacles in China 95 years ago, there might be no Hongkong and Shanghai Bank at all today.

WHAT the Bank is doing is avoiding a concentration of eggs in one basket. Or perhaps it would be more true to say that with no more room in the existing basket it is placing surplus eggs elsewhere. So much so that the Bank, which has easily the most widespread sphere of operations of any in the Orient, is now the leading financial institution in the area.

Each new acquisition embracing vast areas of territory, tends to make the Bank's title more and more incongruous and inadequate, yet the locals who look upon Wayfoong with a warm feeling of possessiveness and respect must ask that for old times' sake it will remain "the Hongkong and Shanghai."

Finally, it is gratifying to all that the new connections the Bank seeks, exemplify that searching, adventurous and confident spirit characteristic of the British trader in the Far East from the earliest times. For it is the rock on which Hongkong's past, its present and its future are founded.

CORRESPONDENT GETS EXCLUSIVE COPY OF UN REPORT 'NO FLAGRANT AGGRESSION'

Reported View Of Laos Committee

New York, Nov. 6. The United Nations fact finding committee on Laos will report today that it could not find any evidence to support the Laotian charge of "flagrant aggression" by Vietnam.

JOINING TRIAD WAS 'ECONOMIC NECESSITY'

A businessman had joined a triad society because it was an "economic necessity," a barrister told the Appeals Court today.

Mr A. H. Safford was appearing for To Yin-man, who appealed to Mr Justice J. J. Gregg for a reduction in a nine-month gaol term he received for being a triad official.

Mr Safford told the court To was the sole proprietor of a small business, which dealt with the working class, who often belonged to triad societies.

"It is easiest an economic necessity for a man in his position also to become a member, and promotion in such circumstances is largely a matter of the others giving him a bit of face," said Mr Safford.

"He took no part in criminal activities."

APPEAL DISMISSED

Mr D. E. Greenfield, Crown Counsel, pointed out that To was a "White Paper Fan" or a member of the society's governing body.

His Lordship dismissed the appeal.

He also dismissed an appeal of Tsang Chiu, who had been gaoled for one year for being a triad society's "straw sandal."

The Court was told a "straw sandal" was not merely a messenger, but a person who collected and called on people he thought would be useful in a fight.

Tsang, a cobbler, said he had been required to join the society by his customers.

He admitted introducing two members into the organisation.

A PHARAOH REPLACES DE LESSEPS

Paris, Nov. 5. The United Arab Republic authorities are to erect a statue of Egyptian Pharaoh Senusret III at the entrance to Port Said on a column which once carried the statue of French Suez Canal engineer Ferdinand De Lesseps—blown up at the time of the Suez Canal crisis in 1956.

Arab press reports received in Paris today said Senusret III, who belonged to the 12th dynasty, reportedly built an artificial canal linking the Red Sea with the Mediterranean. His statue is now in a Cairo museum.—UPI.

Washington, Nov. 5. A leading United States astronomer reported today that he had evidence of widespread plant life on Mars greater than that found on Earth and perhaps superior in yield. Writing in the magazine Science, Journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr William Slifer Christian Science Monitor correspondent William R. Frye reported this last night.

Frye, who obtained an exclusive copy of the report, told the audience of the CBS television news programme "World Tonight," that the report quotes Communist copies as saying that North Vietnamese soldiers made up as much as one third to one half of some Pathet Lao, or anti-Government units.

Identified

Frye said witnesses identified their former comrades by language, green uniforms, and the kind of rice they ate.

"But all these witnesses were Laotian citizens. No North Vietnamese captives were produced," Frye said the report revealed.

The committee was shown Chinese style uniforms and medical bags bearing Chinese lettering; it saw Communists made weapons and ammunition. But it also found American motors and French weapons in arms abandoned by the Communists.

Frye said the committee concluded that "the ensemble of information submitted to the sub-committee did not clearly establish whether there were crossings of the frontier by the regular troops of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."—UPI.

He took no part in criminal activities.

ILL-FATED EXPEDITION RETURNS

Katmandu, Nov. 5. The 10 surviving members of the ill-fated All Women's Expedition to Cho Oyu reached Katmandu, the Nepal capital, late tonight after a fortnight's trek from Namche Bazar.

They were met at Banepa, on the Eastern edge of the Katmandu valley by a crowd of well-wishers and newsmen.

Countess Dorothy Gravina, 53, British leader of the survivors, refused to speak to pressmen but told a diplomat who came to meet them:

"So we are back all safe, thank God."

The expedition lost their leader, Claude Kogan, climber Claudine Van Der Straeten and two porters on Cho Oyu.

Mars Has Superior Plants

said his evidence was indirect and tentative. But he said his work with the 200-inch "big eye" telescope suggested the presence of organic molecules on Mars. "Growth of vegetation certainly seems to be the most logical explanation for the appearance of organic molecules," he said.

Londoners Warned Of Infected Beef

London, Nov. 5. An urgent police message was broadcast by the BBC tonight warning that about two hundredweight of anthrax-infected beef, believed to be highly dangerous, had been sold in a London shop last weekend.

All people who believed they might have been in contact with the beef were advised to visit their doctor immediately.

The beef was sold in a shop in Notting Hill, West London.

The warning was issued by Scotland Yard when Scottish police discovered the meat had been sent from a warehouse in Keith, Scotland, infected by anthrax.—Reuters.

Surprises In Labour's New Cabinet

London, Nov. 5. Less than five hours after the announcement that he had been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, Mr Philip Noel-Baker learned tonight that he had lost his seat in the Labour Party's "Shadow" Cabinet.

The voting for 12 places in the "Shadow" Cabinet—Parliamentary Committee—had been completed before the announcement of the 70-year-old Labour statesman's Nobel award, but his name was not announced until tonight.

Dr Edith Summerskill, 59, former Labour Minister who regained her former "Shadow" Cabinet place only a year ago, was also defeated in the current election.

The present Party Chairman, Mrs Barbara Castle, made an unsuccessful bid for election. She has not so far been a member of the committee.

There were two vacancies among the 12 elected—one caused by the General Election defeat of Mr Arthur Bottomley, the other by Mr Aneurin Bevan's promotion to the Party deputy leadership, which gives him automatic title to sit in the "Shadow" Cabinet.

Politicians commented tonight on the irony that Mr Noel-Baker's defeat should have come within hours of the distinction conferred on him by award of the Nobel Peace Prize, and speculated that the result of the Labour ballot might have been very different if the party had been aware of his impending distinction.

Many Socialists attributed his failure to the Labour Party's current anxiety to rebuild its strength with younger blood after its general election defeat.

The newcomers are all comparatively young men.—Reuters.

New Members

There are now four new members—Mr Fred Lee, 53, a former junior Labour minister; Mr Fred Willey, 49, also a former junior minister; Mr George Brown, the Party's Defence spokesman, who was unseated from the "Shadow" Cabinet at the last election; and Mr Denis Healey, 42, one of the Party's leading foreign affairs experts.

The new "Shadow" Cabinet, with ages and votes bracketed—is:

Mr Harold Wilson, 43, the Party's "shadow" Chancellor of the Exchequer (187); Mr James Callaghan, 47, Labour's "shadow" Colonial Secretary (149); Sir Frank Soskice, 57, a former attorney-general (144); Mr Alfred Robens, 48, former Labour minister (142); Mr Fred Lee (37); Mr Anthony Greenwood, 48, (121); Mr Tom Fraser, 48, (118); Mr George Brown, 45, (100); Mr Patrick Gordon-Walker, 52, former Commonwealth Relations Secretary (101); Mr Gilbert Mitchell, 69, (94); Mr Fred Willey (62); Mr Denis Healey (90).

Secret Ballot

The election was conducted by secret ballot of Labour MPs, and the result was announced at tonight's private meeting of the Parliamentary Labour Party. Additionally to the elected 12, the "Shadow" Cabinet includes those others who are automatically members by virtue of their official positions.

Corporal punishment, except for attacks on warders in prison, was abolished in Britain in 1948.

Lord Parker recently told a meeting of magistrates: "No body is suggesting going back to the past." But the cane or the birch has just about the amount of indignity about it to make it a deterrent."

Mr Butler said: "No one objects to a parent or a teacher, if under proper conditions, using the cane on young people. We have found from the report of 1948, what very great difficulty there is in administering this punishment through the courts. Let us have a discussion about it. I am not unduly perturbed."

He agreed, however, that Police training would do him no harm.

The Director of Manpower, Mr J. F. Coyne undertook to release Mr Hobbs whenever he was required by the Water Authority and he agreed to give him a written notice of this undertaking.

ANTI-VICE ACT

London, Nov. 5. Britain's Anti-Vice Act has been "remarkably successful" in driving prostitutes off the streets since it came into force in August. Mr Dennis Vesper, Joint Home Office Under-Secretary said today.

He told the House of Commons that 23 women had been sealed, on conviction under the Act and another 63 had gone to prison for failing to pay fines.

A reporter asked if, in other words, the President never played golf in France in 1944.

Mr Hagerty agreed that that was correct.

Mr Hagerty went on to say, in reply to further questions, that the President had hit a few golf balls in England before the invasion.

The President and I have talked about this," Mr Hagerty said.

"He lived at Telegraph Cottage (south of London). There was a golf course at Telegraph Cottage that had been converted to a military installation.

"A couple of holes were left and he played for exercise.

"There were two ragged places that looked like golf holes and they used to hit golf balls."

DETACHED

Lord Alanbrooke wrote in his diary that shortly before the Battle of the Bulge, General Eisenhower was "on the golf links at Rheims—entirely detached and taking practically no part in running the war."

General Eisenhower was "no commander...had no strategic vision, was incapable of making a plan or of running operations when started," he said in his diary.—Reuters.

Mr Burgess Makes Helicopter Visit To Cheung Chau

The Officer Administering the Government, Mr C. B. Burgess, told the people of Cheung Chau today that the "rather special problems" of the island community would be kept under constant study by the District Commissioner of the New Territories and his staff.

Speaking to members of the Cheung Chau Chamber of Commerce during his visit to the island this morning, Mr Burgess said that it was clear that the Cheung Chau community had in the past done a great deal to help itself.

"I congratulate you upon this," he added, "and I hope that the same spirit and enterprise will continue to prevail here. I am sure it will. At the same time, anything that the Government can do to help to improve the conditions under which you work and live will receive the most serious consideration."

Hour's Tour

Mr Burgess, who was accompanied by the District Commissioner, Mr D. R. Holmes, travelled in a helicopter to Cheung Chau, which is one of the largest of the inhabited islands of the New Territories.

The island has a land population of about 15,000 people and a fishing community of between 7,000 and 10,000 in normal times.

Mr Burgess made an hour-long tour of the island on foot. He first inspected the Pak Tai Temple and then visited the squatter areas at Pak Shek and Tung Wan.

On Cheung Chau Peak, Mr Burgess viewed the residential development that has taken place recently.

The tour of Cheung Chau concluded with a visit to the southern end of the new urn Cemetery Road and an inspection of the Tai Choi Yuen squatter area and the business centre of the town.

This afternoon, Mr Burgess will visit the southern part of Lantau Island for talks with the South Lantau Rural Committee and inspect the Shek Pik valley, where work is in progress on the Colony's newest reservoir.

WORLD-WIDE TENDERS CALLED FOR SHEK PIK UNDERWATER PIPES

The Hongkong Government is inviting world-wide tenders for the laying of two steel submarine pipelines, each 30 inches in diameter, to carry filtered water from the Shek Pik reservoir on Lantau Island to the western end of Hongkong Island.

The pipelines will be laid on the seabed of the West Lamma Channel, from a point at Silvermine Bay to Lamma Island, to Sandy Bay, just below Mount Davis.

The pipelines will surface on the small island of Chau Kung, which is midway between Lamma and Hongkong.

They will be interconnected on Chau Kung so that water can be brought over to Hongkong in the event of one of the pipelines being damaged.

The laying of the submarine pipelines constitutes another phase in the $220,000,000

Shek Pik reservoir project, which is due for completion towards the end of 1963. The storage capacity of the reservoir is 3,400 million gallons.

Main items of the pipe-laying work include welding, bitumen sheathing and concrete cladding of the pipes and burying them below the seabed.

At Sandy Bay, the bulk of the water from Shek Pik will be pumped to two new service reservoirs, which are to be constructed on the slopes of Mount Davis.

Some of the water, however, will be conveyed direct to the existing Elliot service reservoir, situated near the University of Hongkong.

Work on the laying of the submarine pipelines will begin in October next year and take about 22 months to complete.

I Regard It As An Award To A Cause, Says Noel-Baker

London, Nov. 5. Mr Philip Noel-Baker, the Labour statesman, at first expressed incredulity when informed by Reuter today that he had been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

Then he added: "My first reaction is that I have in some ways been an unfortunate man in that I have had to live through two world wars but I have been a very fortunate man because I was my father's son."

Tribal Fight Sequel

Port Moresby, Nov. 5. More than 300 Papuan highland natives have been sentenced to gaol, as a sequel to a big tribal fight in August in which at least six were killed.

The Director of Native Affairs, Mr A. Roberts, said today that about 5,000 natives took part in the fight in the Lai Valley of the Southern Highlands District.

A Government patrol raced to the area and effected what appeared to be mediation but they were forced to return later and arrested 300 natives and charged them with riotous behaviour.

Ringleaders of the fighting were sentenced to six months gaol and each of the others to four months imprisonment.—China Mail Special.

5 Killed In Cave-In

Syracuse, Sicily, Nov. 5. At least five people were killed here today when a wall of rock about 30 feet high collapsed onto "grottoes" used as dwellings by eight families.

Four people were seriously injured.

Rescue workers have so far dug out five bodies including that of an eight-month-old baby.

The fall is believed to have been caused by a cave-in in the loose ground under the wall.—AFP.

POWERED FLIGHT BID FAILS

Edward Air Base, Calif., Nov. 5. The rocket powered X-15 made an emergency landing today on its third attempt at powered flight when pilot Scott Crossfield felt an explosion seconds after the craft's release from a B-52 mother ship.

Crossfield successfully landed the dart-shaped aircraft on Rosamond dry lake six minutes after it was dropped.

He was not injured. A spokesman for North American Aviation said there was "some damage" to the X-15 itself, the extent of which was not immediately determined.

Maj. Robert White, trailing the experimental craft in an F7-14 jet fighter, said he noticed a small fire in the tail compartment. However, White, who will fly the X-15 to the fringes of outer space, said the fire was put out before the X-15 made its landing.—UPI.

PRIESTLEY WOULD WALK OUT

Melbourne, Nov. 5. Mr J. B. Priestley said today he would walk out "in a very noisy manner" if a peace conference he has come here to attend turned out to be a Communist meeting.

Speaking to reporters after his arrival in Melbourne, the author said there would certainly be Communists attending the conference.

"But se what?" he asked.

"One third of the world's population are Communists."

NUCLEAR WEAPONS

He said disarmament was very dear to his heart and no one in their senses wanted to fight another war with new weapons. Even the politicians who promoted them wanted to get out of the difficult situation.

"Once every nation has nuclear weapons the time will come when they will explode them," he said. "The politicians know this and now look to us the people."—China Mail Special.

Electronic Lung Is Developed

London, Nov. 5. An electronic lung which, its manufacturers claim, will have several advantages over the iron lung in the treatment of Polio patients, has been developed by a British Company, it was announced today.

The offence dated back to September 6, 1958, a court report said.

It was alleged that the artist, Frederick Skues, holding a third class ticket, was sleeping in a second class carriage of a train travelling from Linz to Vienna, when the conductor and guard asked for his ticket.

He was said to have replied by taking a live cobra from his case and waving it at them, in his other hand he held a knife.

The two officials fled from the cabin. But Skues was arrested and charged on arrival in Vienna.—China Mail Special.

MORE FREEDOM

Announcing the new machine today, the Pye Group said: "Instead of being encased in a box the patient is linked to the ventilator by two plastic tubes. Breathing is sustained by the alternation of positive and negative pressure, air being pumped into the lungs during the positive phase and exhausted during the negative phase."

They added: "The iron lung is an effective machine for sustaining life but, since only the head of the patient is outside the lung, dependence upon nursing staff is complete. The patient has no liberty whatsoever."

"Treatment of such cases by the Barnet Ventilator, however, gives the patient considerable freedom."—Reuter.

Waved Cobra At Officials

Vienna, Nov. 5. A British variety artist, alleged to have waved a live cobra at an Austrian train conductor and guard when they asked for his ticket, was sentenced here today to three months imprisonment and suspended for three years for "violence against railway officials."

Lord Louis On U.S. Air Force Readiness

London, Nov. 5. Lord Louis Mountbatten, addressing the Annual Conference of the Institute of Directors, said today that the United States Air Force had "well over 300 bombers loaded with nuclear weapons around the world today for takeoff at 15 minutes notice."

Referring to his recent tour of American air bases, the Chief of the British Defence Staff said that one of the most impressive things about U.S. air readiness was their communications.

Beaverbrook Giving Up Struggle For Empire Free Trade

London, Nov. 5. Lord Beaverbrook, the Canadian-born British newspaper proprietor, tonight suggested he was giving up his struggle to promote British Empire free trade.

Speaking on television in a filmed interview from his boyhood home in New Brunswick, Canada, he said of his 50 years' work for Empire free trade, "there is no use any longer in carrying on that struggle."

Lord Beaverbrook said that when he set out on the work for Empire free trade the population of Great Britain was 45 million or perhaps 50 million and the population of the Empire was 500 million.

"So it would seem," the 80-year-old peer said, "that the efforts of all those who fought and struggled for the policy that I believe in have come to nothing."

"The minds of the people of Britain have turned elsewhere. The dominions have changed and varied and altered in their attitude. The United States of America has grown powerful and irresistible in its relations with Australia and Canada."

"How can we go on with any hope of interesting or enlisted public support now?"—Reuter.

Apology From War Office

London, Nov. 5. The British War Office today apologised to Mr and Mrs Thomas Molynieux of Newton-le-Willows, Lancashire, for a visit to their home last month by three Military Policemen who came to arrest their 21-year-old son John as a deserter when he was in fact serving in Malaya.

The incident caused a great stir in Britain at the time and Mr Fred Lee, the Molynieux's local Member of Parliament, said he would ask in the House of Commons what steps would be taken to prevent a repetition of the incident.

Today the Parliamentary Undersecretary of State for War, Mr Hugh Fraser, sent a letter of apology to the Molynieuxs.

It said steps had been taken "to ensure where there is any delay in making Police inquiries about men who have been reported as absent by their unit, a check is made to see that the report is up to date before any calls are made at the soldier's home."—Reuter.

DON IDDON'S DIARY

New York.
WHAT with the pound sterling stripped of its straitjacket, British capital financing a new 57-storey skyscraper in midtown Manhattan, and the biggest boom ever in British sales, we can modestly say we have staged quite a comeback in New York and the U.S., in fact, we might say we are Anglicising the town if not the country.

Who are those bowler-hatted gents wearing narrow-trousered suits and carrying rolled umbrellas strolling down Fifth Avenue? The British delegation to the United Nations? Not on your life. They're American advertising and public-relations executives.

And the tweed-suited matrons with the sturdy British brogues walking Central Park? Daughters of the British Empire? No — Daughters of the American Revolution.

The slogan here is: "It's smart to be British." I took a walk down Madison Avenue and cut across 57th Street, both big shopping thoroughfares. In the space of half an hour's stroll I counted 40 shops displaying British goods — cloth, gin, Savile Row suits, raincoats, macintoshes, hats, shoes, china, silverware, woollens, tweeds, socks. The signs said "Imported from Britain. British. The Best."

J. B. PRIESTLEY

I walked into the Rootes, Austin and Jaguar showrooms, all reported record sales. For the first time in years Britain is selling the U.S. more goods than we are buying from America. It is getting so that the Government in Washington has decided to introduce a "Buy American" principle, particularly in its foreign aid programme.

The dollar is not willing but the pound sterling can certainly stare it in the face and perhaps outlast it.

High and mighty

Two years ago sailors and stevedores on the waterfront where the liners dock were selling British pounds in the bars and grills for $2. Now the pound brings the full $2.80 and occasionally more. The pound is high and mighty, and some Wall Street people think it could go as high as $3 if completely freed.

sleep, not a deep, refreshing sleep. And the food's not a patch on British food nowadays. It's no bargain living here."

Of that I'm well aware. A haircut costs 12s without tip; it's £20 a month to garage my car; 1 sh. for orange juice; ham and eggs, ten and toad; £2 for a steak; and apartment rents are astronomical.

The cost of living in the U.S. as announced by the Treasury recently, reached an all-time high last month, previous to ushing, food, medical care, clothing, and personal services all went up in September. Only transportation costs went down.

The American people are on a tremendous. Personal incomes increased 2.5 per cent over 1957, but the consumer price index in the same year went up 3 per cent. We can't win.

If the British have never had it so good, the Americans have rarely had it so bad, with a record crime wave, strike-bound industries and inflation which no longer creeps but leaps.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6

AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): If you want to succeed in your career, you must stop being afraid of facing facts. Only thus can you overcome inevitable obstacles.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): Try to curb your impulse to pick a quarrel at the slightest provocation; self-control is always more impressive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your idea of how best to conduct your affairs will be put to the test, and you will have proof that you are on the right track.

TAURUS (April 20-May 18): Don't be discouraged by having erred in your judgment; it is not the first time, and you have survived it before.

GEMINI (May 19-June 21): A new experience in human relationships will necessitate a complete revision of your old beliefs.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Don't let anybody try to magnify the error you rectified by your own efforts.

LEO (July 22-August 21): In your artistic pursuit you have to depend a great deal on inspiration and you must take advantage of every such experience.

VIRGO (August 22-September 21): Being new at your present job, you should not plunge into things which are strange to you, but slowly grope your way to eventual mastery.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): Having had until now only theoretical expressions of your ideas, you must soon put them to the practical test.

SORPIO (October 23-November 21): Since you are in a position to influence other people's conduct, you must be careful to lead them along the right path.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Your efforts to raise yourself in life are most commendable and you ought to keep on the way you are going.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 20): An apparently small event in your artistic career may mark the turning point in your efforts to reach the top.

YOUR BIRTHDAY: If your birthday is today, your confidence in yourself will increase in the coming year as you acquire wider experience in your chosen field.

RECIPE

SPARE-RIB OF PORK

The sweetest of all pork is the spare-rib. Unlike the transatlantic cut, this joint is a thick piece, similar to the middle cut of neck of lamb. The fat is nicely distributed through the meat instead of being on the outside and, as there is much less of it, it is less wasteful.

I had a 4lb. piece last week. It was delicious; and never was there more pleasant cold pork. I allowed 25 minutes a pound and 25 over for the full cooking time. Here is what to do:

Brush the meat with melted pork or bacon fat and bake it for 45 minutes at 450 degrees Fahr., or gas mark 8, until it takes on a nice colour. Baste it, sprinkle it with pepper and salt, cover it with aluminium foil, reduce the heat to 350 degrees Fahr., or gas mark 4, and complete the cooking.

It is tempting to bake something with this joint—thickly sliced potatoes and a chopped onion or two, for instance. During the last three-quarter-hour pour off excess fat from the baking tin, surround the meat with the vegetables and finish the cooking.

More exciting, perhaps, is to pour off excess fat, and bake whole prunes and cored small apples around the meat, with the addition of a small glass of cider.

To serve, place the meat on a hot platter and surround it with the garnish. Add to the pan a breakfast of seasoned stock blended with a teaspoon of arrowroot. Boil up, strain into a sauce-boat and serve.

THE NEW SHOPPING GIMMICK —JUST FOLLOW YOUR NOSE

can sell almost ANYTHING

I THINK I became aware of the insidious, nose-tickling, palate provoking possibilities of perfume as a sales persuader when, shopping for my small son's pleasure, I opened a box of bright pink modelling clay and found it smelled of FUDGE.

Sweet-scented and gooey it was irresistible. I bought it—and needless to say he tried to eat it! But that is another story.

Had he, I wondered, any tips for trans-continental tycoons?

"Only to dress sensibly," said he. "Our jets are a little bit cramped and there's no night accommodation."

"Informal clothes are the answer. I travelled in grey flannels, a light sports shirt, a cashmere cardigan, and pull-on shoes."

"It's a sordid thought, but one's feet swell at that altitude."

"Otherwise all was peaceful and serene — entirely without incident?" I asked.

"Peaceful ... serene ...!" The asterisks and exclamation marks fairly buzzed down the telephone wire.

All over the Western world we now go shopping nose first.

The silent persuasion of certain piquancies is irresistible to us.

Women can't resist it

"The children, bless their little hearts, bawled all night."

"There were five of them in the first-class with their poor mothers alternately diving into great raffia baskets in search of things to flap at them or slush-ing them violently."

"As for the business men—it seems they have to talk and drink, and since there's no bar set on each other's seat arms."

"And they're all so big."

"One man broke the arm and wrecked his seat so they had to move him into the 'Tourists.'

"He started a scene—but a giant rose up and silenced him. You got no complaint, cobber. You broke that seat and when you broke it all your beer went into my boots."

"My suggestion is there should be one creche on every plane for children and a second for large Australian business men," said the Queen's dressmaker with feeling.

I said that I had with me a sweater I'd bought for my husband. Would he give it a dash of New Mown Hay?

He did.

"Jolly nice sweater," said my husband later—but I can't think why it smells of rice!" Oh men!

Life with Amies— on top of the world

By MAX TRELL

"BOY-OH-BOY-OH-BOY!"

BACK from a 30,000-mile air trip to Australia via New York (and taking in Canada on the return journey), Hardy Amies—Top Eleven designer and Queen's Own Dressmaker—went to sleep for 18 hours.

He had just woken up when I telephoned and felt, he said, on top of the world.

As he said this, he let himself that I heard a lot of fellows shouting: "Okay, there! Lift it up! Come on, everybody!"

I looked all around, continued Christopher, "but I couldn't see anybody. Then I looked down and there in the grass I saw them, a whole crowd of ants, may be 15 or 20 of them."

"Ants!" Handi exclaimed.

Christopher Cricket nodded.

"I guess they were girl-ants. All of them were wearing dungarees and sweaters. I got down on my hands and knees to see what they were trying to lift."

"What was it, Christopher?" asked Knarf.

"A gundrop," answered Christopher Cricket.

Knarf and Handi both let out a shout of astonishment.

"Yes, it was a gundrop, and a black gundrop at that," nodded Christopher. "Somebody must have dropped it."

"I asked the Ants what they were going to do with it. They said they wanted to get it to the place where they lived, and they pointed to a little hill about a yard away. So I offered to carry that gundrop for them."

"Good idea," said Christopher.

"It's a good idea to go to sleep when you're sleepy," said Knarf.

"It sure is," said Christopher Cricket. "So I swung my guitar over my shoulder and started walking home."

"Do you know that nice bit of green grass and trees and bushes near the entrance to the park?"

"Well, as I was going past that spot, it seemed to me

NO SURPRISE FAVOURED TO WIN SHORT-SPRINT MAIN EVENT FOR CLASS 1 PONIES

Main interest on the First Day of the Hongkong Jockey Club's Third Race Meeting tomorrow at Happy Valley will be centred on the race for Class 1 ponies, The Bennet's Hill Handicap over the distance of half a mile and 171 yards.

Tomorrow's programme will consist of eight races, and the first Saddling Bell will be rung at 1.30 p.m. The Second Day of this meeting will be on Monday, November 9.

Here are my estimates of the chances:

FIRST RACE
Diamond Hill Handicap (First Section): From 2 Mile Post.

SIXTH RACE

Diamond Hill Handicap (Second Section): From 2 Mile Post.

This race will be contested by Second Section, Class 8 ponies.

In my estimation the result will be decided between Sea Tigress (Albert Lam), High Noon (U Kun Lun), King Rider (K. Kwok) and Blue Train (A. Ostroumoff).

Sea Tigress is a greatly improved pony and its second placing in the Bowen Handicap (First Section) at the last meeting should provide it with a win here.

On the other hand, High Noon is well suited for this distance and should be near at the close.

Then there is King Rider which is also a danger here as it is good enough to extend the field.

Blue Train will be piloted by A. Ostroumoff and, for those who prefer an outsider, this combination is worth following.

SECOND RACE
Dragon's Back Plate: Six Furlongs.

This sprint race is confined to Dragon's Back Plate, each carrying 147 lbs.

Of the entries I prefer the combination of M. Samarc and Bonjour best. With a decent getaway at the start, Bonjour will be most difficult to beat.

Hit Parade (H. M. Botelho) is rounding into fine form and should be a threat while No Comment (K. Kwok) can place.

Certified Cheque (H. Patty) has been training well and may come up with a big surprise. It is expected to make a sound showing.

THIRD RACE
Turret Hill Plate: From 2 Mile Post.

Class A, 1959 ponies will fight out the issue in this race. Each will carry 150 lbs but winners of not more than $4,000 in stakes are allowed 7 lbs and winners of not more than $2,250 in stakes 12 lbs. Allowances are not cumulative. There is no allowance for ponies which have previously started fewer than three times.

Judging from their present form during morning gallops one does not have to go far to find the winner. If form was the only criterion I would plump for Wei Faing (A. Ostroumoff) but anything could happen in the racing game and others worth considering are Hadda Hu (T. H. Yau), Shadai (Alex Lam), Silla (K. Kwok) and possibly Tinkerbell (Andrew Lam).

FOURTH RACE
Waterfall Bay Handicap (First Section): Six Furlongs.

One of the outstanding ponies in this race is Brilliance (P. Y. T. Wei), while both City of Victoria (Albert Lam) and Talisman (A. Ostroumoff) have been beautifully tuned for this outing.

The outsider is Nectar (Allen Chan).

FIFTH RACE
Bennet's Hill Handicap: From 1 1/2 Mile Post.

This is the main event of the afternoon.

All Happy (K. Kwok) appears to have the best recommendation for a win here.

The pony to watch, however, is Nurse Prince (M. Samarc). It has been showing improved form lately and it will give No Surprise a keen fight.

There is also Winsome Star (Alex Lam) to be considered. This pony has been making rapid improvement and the distance should suit it.

Nurse Fair (P. Y. T. Wei) is considered good enough to exceed expectations.

EIGHTH RACE
West Bay Handicap: From 2 Mile Post.

This is the final event of the day which is confined to Class 4 ponies.

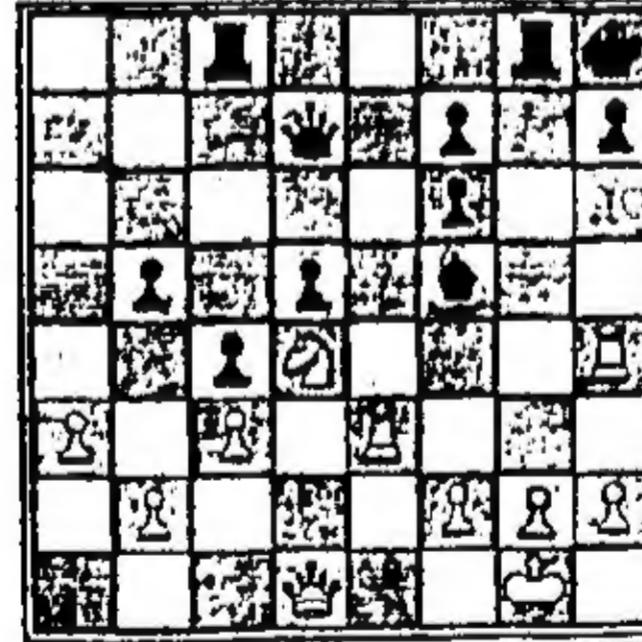

All Happy (K. Kwok), having hit winning form, can make it two in a row over this distance.

Bellinda (Allan Chan) also has been very consistent of late and has a chance of success.

Cheerful (Alex Lam) and Can Do (Lam King Tuk) are fit enough and could cause an upset here.

WEEKEND SOFTBALL

SAINTS WILL NEED MORE THAN EXPERIENCE AGAINST SOUTH CHINA

By OLLY VAS

Six softball matches will be played off over the weekend and there should be no lack of excitement, particularly in the Senior division.

The Cardinals open the programme with a game against the Dodgers, at 2.00 p.m. tomorrow and the Cheyennes come up against the Austers at 3.30 p.m.

For the Cardinals a much-needed win will mean a chance to catch up with the leaders in the Junior division. Having dropped three decisions they can ill-afford to lose again.

The Dodgers have lost one out of three matches but they are an unpredictable side where form is concerned. A Cardinal victory would not come as a great surprise.

The Austers will rely on the services of Bill Silva as coach but they are in for another trying time all the same. The Cheyennes should run the score up to double figures to stay at the head of the Junior league table.

Ladies' Match

Sunday's programme opens with a ladies' match, at 9.30 a.m., between the Matadors and the Cheyennes.

Both have lost a match apiece. The Cheyennes hold the edge in batting power but the big question is who is going to pitch? Certainly not Frances da Silva who will not be available. Matador hurler Anabelle Chin has it in her to toss her teammates to victory.

At 11.00 a.m. the Saints clash with South China AA. A hard-fought match is in the offing with the odds favouring SCAA whose

Impressive

To round off the day New Asia College will meet the Giants at 3.30 p.m. New Asia have impressed in recent junior matches while the Giants have been most disappointing. I hope the latter will pull up their socks and put some life in their play for New Asia cannot be beaten too easily. The students are a resolute lot and taking current form as a criterion I pick them to emerge victorious.

Australian LTA President Favours 'Open' Tournaments

MELBOURNE, Nov. 5. Open tennis tournaments were inevitable and should be introduced within two years, the president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia, Mr D. M. Ferguson, said today. "It must be controlled by the amateur associations, because they control all the big courts," he said.

Mr Ferguson was commenting on reports that the All-England Tennis Club had voted in favour of open events.

Mr Ferguson said: "The All-England Club is one of the most important tennis clubs in the world. Anything it says must be taken seriously."

A report on "amateurism" to be considered by the LTAA is being prepared by a special six-man committee and will be presented to the next LTAA council meeting on November 18.—China Mail Special.

It's Not Cricket

Hey, you Ruzger typcs, how would you like to play against a woman? Up in Wigan they do!

Miss Mary Henton is games mistress at Abram Colliery School, Blackpool, and when the Rugby master left the school expected her to continue coaching them. So she joined a coaching class run in Wigan by former Widnes and Leigh captain Tom Sale.

John Surtees Elected British Sportsman Of The Year

LONDON, Nov. 5. For the first time a motorcyclist, John Surtees, was elected British sportsman of the year by the Sports Writers Association here today.

Surtees, winner of many Grand Prix motorcycle races in the 250 and 500 cc categories, currently leads the International Championship motorcycle standings. The only other motorcyclist ever to place in the annual vote is the celebrated Geoff Duke who was awarded fourth place in 1955.

Surtees won over speedboat racer Donald Campbell, who this year again broke his own world speed record piloting his "Bluebird" on Coniston Water, Lancashire.

Third place went to Ronnie Dawson, captain of Britain's Rugby Union team which had such an overwhelming success during its tour of the Antipodes last summer.

Other Places

The remaining places went to:

4. Arthur Rowe, European shot put record holder (60 ft 11 ins).

5. Stirling Moss, automobile racing driver, currently second in the world championship standings.

6. Louis Martin, world weightlifting champion, medium heavyweight category.

7. Ian Black, triple European swimming champion who was British sportsman of the year in 1958.

8. Freddie Gilroy, new European bantamweight champion, and Billy Wright, former England football team captain who played in 105 international matches for England.

10. Brian Hewson, European 880 yards record holder, and

JOHN SURTEES

Fred Norris, international cross country champion.

The sportsmen will receive their trophies at a banquet in London on December 3.—AFP.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Language Cause Of Misunderstanding

Sir,—I have to refer to the letter appearing in yesterday's edition of your paper under the nom-de-plume "Irate".

The middle-aged Chinese man referred to in this letter is in fact the watchman. He is a Northerner, speaking the Shang-tung dialect and as he understands very little Cantonese, I have no doubt that "Irate's" fluency in that dialect was completely lost on him. I am certain that any misunderstanding arose from language difficulty.

The watchman was perfectly in order in asking persons entering the Club for a pass as a large notice exhibited outside specifically states "MEMBERS ONLY", and the presumption raised by "Irate" that rugby enthusiasts are immune from any form of restrictions governing entry to this ground is erroneous. They, as are other sports enthusiasts, are expected to observe such regulations as may be in force at any particular time.

Princess Alexandra cancels her holiday at Lord
O'Neill's home...

AS I feared, Lord O'Neill was putting his foot in his mouth when he told me the other day that an engagement between himself and Princess Alexandra was "in the air." For the Princess cancelled the visit she was to have made to his home in Ireland.

A rueful Lord O'Neill told me: "The Princess phoned me and said the party was off." What reason did the Princess give for this summary cancellation? Lord O'Neill preferred not to tell me.

"All I can say is that, as you know, she is in Germany at the moment," he said.

Princess Alexandra and her mother, the Duchess of Kent, flew to Frankfurt recently to visit relatives. She is still there though she had planned to fly to Ireland and motor to Shane's Castle, Lord O'Neill's home in Antrim.

No member of her staff was to have gone with her. But Lord O'Neill invited two married couples as chaperones—Mr and Mrs Robin Douglas-Hamilton and Mr and Mrs. Thomas Dunne.

His sister, Miss Fiona O'Neill, had also intended to be at Shane's Castle.

Not upset

She is not a bit disappointed by the upset in the arrangements.

"To tell the truth," she said, "I wasn't much looking forward to all the flower arranging I would have to do."

Twenty-six-year-old Lord O'Neill and Princess Alexandra—who is 23 on Christmas Day—have been friends for many years, and they have spent dozens of evenings out together in London.

But one person who has thought all along that an engagement was unlikely is his mother, Mrs. Ann Fleming.

"It will be delightful, but I don't think it will happen," she said when her son was talking so gaily a week ago.

FOR the first time in weeks I have good news for Mr John Aspinwall, the well-known gambler. Bridge-Bleas Rural District Council owes him about £200, which has been overpaid on his rates. He can collect the money at the council offices.

COVETED
THE painting which most interested the Queen when she visited an art exhibition in London recently was a Land-eater—Queen Victoria and the Duke of Wellington. Reviewing the Life Guards at Windsor.

It is a picture, I am told, which she has long coveted, and it is possible that she will soon possess it.

The owner is Mr Jack Sillies, a wealthy businessman and a close friend of Michael Parker, former private secretary to Prince Philip.

He loaned it anonymously for the exhibition. But when I told him his secret had been bared, he said: "I did not realise the Queen would be so keen on my picture. Will I part with it? Well . . . I might."

And then he added, with a laugh: "Perhaps it would get me a knighthood."

I don't know about that, but the painting would certainly command a high price. For the only pictures the Queen really likes are those of horses.

Mr Clore will have 30 guests at his Mayfair home when he entertains M. Mendes-France. And he is sure they will all be safe.

"Mine is a very quiet and orderly house," he says.

Welcome

TUE Earl and Countess of Listowel left London for a two-day stay in Nice recently before returning to their home in Ghana, where Lady Listowel's baby, expected in March, will be born.

Just before she left, Lady Listowel—formerly singer Stevie Wise—said there was a possibility she would have twins.

"There is nothing to suggest it at the moment," she said. "But there are twins on both sides of my family, so I wouldn't be surprised."

Both were busy packing, for they were to fly to Accra.

Lady Listowel left the Ghana capital early this year and came to London for hospital treatment. In the summer she went to Holland for a holiday with her husband, then flew home to visit her parents in Toronto.

Lord Listowel has been married once before. And by that marriage he has a 24-year-old daughter, Delphine, who is now the wife of Lord Granley.

The cheetah is particularly well tamed," says Mr Bowden. "They don't get peculiar as they grow older, and you can let them in to do. One can let them into the house and wonders around quite freely, but we can't let him loose outside because he might get at the cattle."

So they caught a train—which was held up for half an hour when a tree was blown down right across the tracks.

SAFER

TUE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF GLOUCESTER were to have flown by helicopter from Kildermister to London recently but their pilot decided the weather was too blustery.

It would be safer, all agreed, to go by rail.

They caught a train—which was held up for half an hour when a tree was blown down right across the tracks.

Midnight:
Princess
Margaret goes to see
Lena Horne

PRINCESS MARGARET dis-

mised her personal detective early one night,

then slipped out of Clarence House for a rendezvous with friends—bachelor Domini Elliot, 23, son of the Earl of Minto, and Mr

Adrian and Lady Mary Bailey.

At midnight they drove up to the Savoy—the Princess in a beautiful orange dress, mink wrap, diamond necklace and pendant earrings which rather put to shame the dusty green saloon car in which they had been made.

They had a table only just inside the restaurant door, a long way from the stage and

Lena Horne, whose cabaret had gone to hear.

A couple of drinks—a few of Miss Horne's songs—"Love to Love," "Sweet," with a "Fringe of the Top," and "Mood

Indigo"—seemed to be the Princess's favourites—and at a quarter past one they were on their way out.

Lady Mary Bailey, 25, a Maid of Honour at the Queen's Coronation is the daughter of the Earl of Haddington. Her husband, who is 29, works for the family glass-making business.

They were married in 1954 and Princess Margaret went to their wedding reception. But not to the wedding. For they are Roman Catholics.

THE BOSS

I AM told it should not be too

readily assumed that Mr

Lennox-Boyd will become chairman of the Guinness business. Of course, he is probably well equipped to fulfil that function. And he would probably be very willing to do so.

But there are other considerations—principally, Lord Moyne.

Lord Moyne has been vice-chairman for many years. He has been a diligent executive, too, and certainly no idle figure head. Moreover, he is bound to the business by blood—he is a nephew of the Earl of Iveagh,

Guinness chairman.

Lennox-Boyd on the other hand has no connection with

Guinness, except, of course,

through his marriage to Lady

Patricia, Lord Iveagh's daughter

(who is herself a director).

Will Lord Moyne, 54, cheerfully relinquish his hopes in favour of Mr Lennox-Boyd?

The question is agitating the Guinness family.

They should not have long to wait for satisfaction. Lord

Moyne is 85 and, I understand,

Boy Holds Up Woman With A Fork

Evidence of a hold-up with a dinner fork was given before Judge B. J. Jennings in the Victoria District Court this morning.

The accused was 19-year-old Lai Kau, described as "incurable," and charged with assault with intent to rob.

The victim was a middle-aged housewife, Chong Ying-sueh. She said that she was about to enter her flat on the second floor of 1A Java Road, in the afternoon of September 22 when the accused suddenly appeared and pointed a fork at her chest.

"He said he would kill me if I didn't give him money," Chong testified. She added that she was holding a wallet containing $6.

She Shouted

She said that she shouted "save life," until she nearly lost her voice. The accused punched her in the chest and ran down the stairs without taking her money.

She chased him and he was eventually caught on the ground floor by a painter, Chiang Sze-tung.

Chiang, who lives and works on the ground floor, said he left his work to see what was the matter when he heard the woman shouting. As he caught hold of the accused, a fork dropped to the ground.

The accused protested his innocence.

He said he had failed to find a friend named George at the address and, coming down the stairs in a hurry, he knocked the woman over. When he tried to pick her up she turned on him and shouted "snatching!"

"I considered that extremely rude so I abused her," the accused told the Court.

His Record

The Judge did not believe him and he was convicted.

Chief Insp. C. Smith disclosed that the accused had a number of previous convictions, among them three for similar things. He had only been released from a training centre two months ago.

"He seemed to be incorrigible," Insp. Smith said.

And the Judge, who noted that the youth had been caned and imprisoned several times, was inclined to agree.

He ordered that the accused be remanded till Friday, November 13 for a report from the Committee of Persons to see if there is any hope of helping him in a training centre.

Judge Jennings commended the painter, Chiang, for catching the accused. "It is not only a police job. It is the duty of every decent person," he said, "and it is only with the help of people like you that we can ever hope to stop the thefts that are going on every day."
